From the Revised ALMA Agreement:

ARTICLE 17: ALMA SCIENCE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

- 17.1 The Board shall establish an ALMA Science Advisory Committee (ASAC) to advise the Board on those major issues presented to the ASAC by the Board that affect the science capabilities of ALMA and require decisions to be made or priorities to be set regarding project tasks and resources. ESO shall appoint up to five ASAC members and NSF shall appoint up to five ASAC members; such appointments to require the concurrence of the Board. Each member shall serve a term of 3 years. Members may be reappointed for a second term.
- 17.2 New participants who join ALMA under the provisions of Article 11 may, at the sole discretion of the Parties, be invited to appoint members and/or observers to ASAC under terms which shall be agreed under Article 11.
- 17.3 The ASAC shall be kept informed of progress and developments in ALMA through periodic reports and briefings provided by the Joint ALMA Office and shall normally meet twice a year. Reports of the ASAC's deliberations shall be made in writing to the Board by the Chairperson of the ASAC following each Committee meeting, on a schedule specified in advance by the Board.
- 17.4 The Chairperson of the ASAC shall be selected by the members of the ASAC from the membership and shall normally respect the principle of rotation among members appointed by the Parties. The selection of the Chairperson shall be subject to the concurrence of the Board.

ARTICLE 18: CHILE

In accordance with the agreement between ESO, the NSF Executive, and CONICYT of Chile, ten percent of the ALMA Observing Time will be set aside each year for Chilean astronomy. The procedure for allocation of this time shall be decided by the Chilean astronomical community, in consultation with the ALMA Board and Director, prior to the initiation of ALMA scientific operations. In addition, CONICYT may appoint

- (a) one Chilean member to the ALMA Board, with the right to vote in all matters except those which involve budgetary obligations of the Parties, specific issues concerning the incorporation of new members in the ALMA partnership, or relations between ALMA and the Republic of Chile;*
- (b) one Chilean observer to AMAC;*
- (c) one member of the Chilean astronomical community to participate in ASAC with right to vote on all matters.*

From the NSF/ESO/NINS Agreement:

- 4.24 NINS may appoint up to two observers to the ALMA Management Advisory Committee (AMAC) and up to three members to the ALMA Science Advisory Committee (ASAC)
